INQUIRY ATTENDS REVERSAL

RESULT OF HANDICAP AT PALMETTO PARK LEADS TO PROMPT INVESTIGATION.

Favorite Made Poor Showing in Race, Second Choice Lost His Rider and Winner Showed Marked Improvement with Change of Jockeys.

Charleston, S. C., December 15.—The result of today's handicap for sprinters at Palmetto Park caused comment, in a preceding start, when at odds-on, Lady Lightning, the winner, lacked early speed and was decisively outpaced by such mediocre racers as Robert Bradley and Gollwog during the early running. She eventually did finish in second place, beaten by Gold Cap, Deronde had the mount on her on that occasion. Today, handled by Buxton, she showed a high order of speed during the entire running and won as her rider pleased. Ella Bryson was installed favorite today on the strength of having made a show of some crack sprinters in her previous start, but in today's race she was a distant trailer for the entire trip. She was also held to be responsible for a mishap that caused J. Henry to be unseated from Carlotta G., the second choice. The officials began looking into the race immediately after its running, but did not conclude their investigation this afternoon. The glaring reversals might have been due to natural causes, but the probing into the race by the officials shows an intent to keep the sport clean. Outside of this race, the sport was of high order and intensely enjoyed by another big throng. Speculation was again of good volume, thirteen layers being in line.

About the most interesting race of the afternoon was the selling handicap at one mile and twenty yards, which was won by Joe Deibold. It was the first purse that Grover Baker had won in nearly four years. After the finish Joe Deibold was bid up from an entered price of $1,500 to $2,905 and bought in.

Another run-up developed after the victory of Master Jim, when the same bidder for Joe Deibold advanced Master Jim from $300 to $505 and failed to get him. J. Shafer, who did the bidding is a native of Gallatin, Tenn., and at one time raced the promising three-year-old "Tommy" in 1912.

N. B. Davis, disposed of two of his horses at private sale this afternoon to Messrs. Hammel & House, two newcomers in the sport. The horses that changed hands were Ben Prior and Bertis.

While being galloped this morning the sprinter Walker, owned by J. O. Tarrs, burst a blood vessel and, bolting for the outside fence, fell and struck his head against a post and broke his neck. Jockey Burlingame was fortunate in escaping with a gash on the leg and a cut on the head. He was taken to one of the local hospitals, but will be up and about in a couple of days. A similar fate befell the good plater, Fred Mulholland, also owned by Mr. Talbot, at the Laurel meeting last fall.

Sam Bradley was among the arrivals this morning and will join the ranks of the layers doing business here in a few days.

Louis Snell is due to arrive on Wednesday. J. W. May received word from Los Angeles this morning informing him of the sudden death of J. R. Walwright, due to a hemorrhage of the brain. The body will be shipped to Pittsburgh, Pa., where funeral services will be held on Friday next. Mr. Walwright raced among others the good horse High Private.

Among the best works this morning over the Palmetto Park track were: Ada—Half mile in 50. Ambition—Five-eighths in 1:07 1/2. Brynildab—Three-eighths in 1:38 1/2. Coppertown—Five-eighths in 1:07. Dossit—Three-quarters in 1:18 1/2. Dr. Jackson—Half mile in 49 1/2. Duquesne—Three-eighths in 37 1/2. Duke Hal—Half mile in 52. El Oro—Mile in 1:49 1/2. Golden Treasure—Three-quarters in 1:21. Gordon—Three-quarters in 1:22 1/2. G. M. Miller—Three-quarters in 1:20. Hoenir—Three-quarters in 1:17. Luria—Three-quarters in 1:18. Madge's Sister—Half mile in 48 1/2. Monocacy—Three-quarters in 1:19 1/2. Pennock—Half mile in 50 1/2. Oneed—Mile in 1:47 1/2. Reno—Mile in 1:48 1/2. Roger Gordon—Half mile in 50 1/2. Shackleton—Three-quarters in 1:18. Sir John Johnson—Three-quarters in 1:22 1/2. Tony W.—Three-quarters in 1:19. Verena—Three-quarters in 1:19 1/2. Water Lady—Half mile in 53.

The big string that J. O. Talbot sent south this winter is rapidly finding its way to many of them will be seen in action shortly. A number of these horses were turned out at a farm in New Jersey in mid-summer. One of them, Tarrs, won at the first asking here. Republican and Palanquin have been taking their daily gallops and are showing much speed in their trials. The star of the stable, Lahore, will not race at Palmetto Park this winter. It is the intention of those in charge of the stable to give this good racer a long let-up in the hope that he may come back to the races next season a sound horse. Their plans to take Lahore up in April and have him ready about the time the Saratoga meeting begins. He has been cutered extensively in the stakes to be run at Saratoga. In the meantime Lahore is being turned-out every day in a roomy paddock located just outside the Palmetto Park enclosure. The yearlings in the Talbot establishment which were purchased from Harry Payne Whitney are a good looking lot.

Dave Nicol, one of the leading riders of the country a few seasons back, is here galloping horses for Lew Marlon. Nicol is still light enough to ride and he is talking of going abroad next year. Frank Rutter is another ex-jockey who will make an effort to obtain an engagement on the other side next season. Rutter has been out of the saddle for a couple of years, but is still light enough to ride. Ted Koerner is another lad that is booked for the other side. Koerner finds it impossible to get down to the weight required on this side.

John Powers, who is assisting in the handling of the big string that J. L. Holland has here, received a letter from Jockey Vincent Powers a few days ago, urging him to go to France and seek an engagement. The aged gelding, Dr. Waldo Briggs, has come back to the races this fall a pretty shifty sort of a plater. He is handled by that capable colored trainer, William Perkins, who, by the way, has all of his horses looking well. Dr. Waldo Briggs spent two years in the shafts of a brewery wagon in Dayton, Ohio, previous to this season. He broke down during his four-year-old form and it was supposed that his career as a racer was ended. He was purchased by his present owner, M. C. Moore, from Fred Luzader, for $50. Mr. Moore has several horses at Dayton and early last spring he decided to send one of them, Fleuron's Daughter, to Perkins, who wintered at Lexington, to train. Perkins had been to Dayton and looked over the Moore horses. He wrote back not to send Fleuron's Daughter, but that he would take a chance of getting Dr. Waldo Briggs to the post. The latter was shipped to Perkins and he has won seven races this year. Fleuron's Daughter and the other horses owned by Moore were drowned in the flood that swept through Dayton last spring, so Dr. Waldo Briggs owes his existence at present to Perkins.

The Busybody, a mare by Meddler—Belle Hoyt, that is racing here has the distinction of being the only racer in the country that has had a woman as a rubber. The Busybody runs in the name of Mrs. J. D. Miskick, while the latter's husband is programmed as the trainer. The Miskicks live at the track and the mare earns a living for the pair. The trio made the circuit of the half mile tracks in Canada last summer and some of the Southern fairs this fall. They went at Richmond and other places in Virginia and the mare won several races.

The selling handicaps which will be featured at Palmetto Park during the remainder of the meeting promise to prove as popular with the horsemen as they did at Pimlico last fall, when two or more were carded daily. These races have a tendency to eliminate the Shylocks of the turf, who prey upon their fellow horsemen. Then, too, they furnish splendid contests and are a big improvement over the old-time form of selling races.

There are few good riders here, the lighter lads being especially poor pilots. No one appears to stand out, which is probably a good thing for all concerned. The racing has been generally clean, despite the fact that the stewards found it necessary to suspend two jockeys. Form has been well observed and the layers have received a drubbing. While the attendance has not been as large as many looked for, the sport is on a solid basis and patronage will undoubtedly increase after the holidays. The club is making every effort to conduct the meeting on high-class lines and the people away from here are beginning to realize that fact.

MOST VALUABLE STAKES OF THIS YEAR IN AMERICA

It is an encouraging sign of the times that no less than sixty-seven stakes, carrying a net value of $2,000 or over to the winner, have been run in the United States, Canada and Mexico during the present year, as compared with only twenty-seven during 1912. Last year no stake reached a value of $10,000 to the winner. This year there were two that exceeded that figure. The richest stake of the year was the Coney Island Jockey Club's Futurity, run at Saratoga, and carrying a net value of $15,000 to the winner. The other stake whose value exceeded $10,000 was the Kentucky Handicap, a new fixture run for the first time at Douglas Park, which yielded the winner $12,150. The list of the stakes run during the year that paid the winners $2,000 or more is made up as follows:

RAIN PUTS STOP TO RECORD BREAKING.

Mud Runners Get First Chance of the Season in Races Over Juarez Course.

El Paso, Tex., December 15.—It rained hard all day and in consequence the attendance at Juarez was the lightest of the meeting, but the crowd that was on hand was all of the speculative kind. The layers claimed that a large amount of money was wagered in spite of the disagreeable conditions.

Many horses that race well in the mud on other courses find it difficult to race in the peculiar brand of adobe mud that abounds here when the track gets soft.

Phil Chinn saddled two winners for Catesby Woodford. He won the second race with Peter Grimm, a brother to the mighty Rosebery, which showed that he liked the muddy track conditions by winning in the easiest possible manner. The second winner was Augustus Heinze, which scored his second victory within a week.

The fifth race brought about the defeat of an odds-on choice, Thistle Belle. She ran into the lead quickly, then appeared to labor in the going, and Orimar Lad thoroughly at home on this kind of a track, won in a canter.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Communications without names and addresses will not be noticed nor answered. No answers will be sent by mail and none by wire unless reply preparation is made at time of wiring query.

John S., St. Louis, Mo. English Lad won the St. Louis Derby of 1904 and Uncle Charley the St. Louis Derby of 1905.

J. D. Detroit, Mich. Your other query said nothing about it being a show parlay. It was void as to 'Ida' and won on Behest to show at 5 to 1.

SIGNS ARE ENCOURAGING

VAST IMPROVEMENT IN NEW YORK RACING LOOKED FOR NEXT SEASON.

Expectation Entertained That Sport Will Be Lifted Out of Struggling Stage—Important Accessions to Ranks of Breeders.

Racing men will find much cause for encouragement in the following extract from the New York Sun of Sunday last: "There are not wanting signs that thoroughbred racing next year, though not likely to reach the high water mark of five or six years ago, will be a vast improvement over the season of 1913, and that the sport in all probability will be lifted out of the struggling stage. The feeling is growing that racing under the present regime is not conducted solely as a medium for betting and that the best of hostile legislation has been reached, with the result that the undesirable element has been practically eliminated and the support of the turf left with men who are truly lovers of the horse."

"Among the new figures who are bound to take a prominent part in the racing game are two who by no stretch of imagination can be accused of being out for the money. They are C. K. G. Billings and Price McKinney, both formerly strong supporters of the trotters. Mr. Billings, it is said, will go in for racing on a big scale in partnership with Frederick Johnson, a consistent owner who comes from a family of racing men tracing back to the beginning of the sport in this country. It may take this firm some time to establish itself as formidable competitors to Harry Payne Whitney and August Belmont, but there is no question that if money and earnest endeavor will accomplish results Mr. Billings soon will be as prominent on the running turf as he was on the trotting tracks."

"There will be something of an experiment tried in the Billings-Johnson venture, as the thoroughbreds will be under the care of Dr. Tanner, who supervised the conditioning of the harness horses campaigned by Mr. Billings. He will not be the first man to devote the knowledge gained in Grand Circuit races to the improvement of the thoroughbred, as John E. Madden, as seen a judge of a horse as ever took part in racing, first was known as a trotting horse man. So far as known at present, Price McKinney will devote his attention mainly to the breeding interests, by no means the least important part of the maintenance of horse racing. It was noticeable last season that the chief difficulty in the revival of the sport that had been allowed to lapse for three years appears certain. Mr. Whitney has his own stock of present interesting stake and handicap contests to attract a crowd that would be interested in the races rather than in the prospect of making a few winning bets. His influence may not be felt for a year or two, but the gradual building up of quality of the American stock of Mr. Whitney has his own stud farm, with the recent addition of the great Peter Pan to help maintain a high standard, and it will be only in line with recent events if August Belmont decides to bring over Tracey, the grandest horse in England, to enrich the thoroughbred stock of America. Along this line the recent visit of John Sanford to France is of interest. The famous Hurricana Stud, like the others in this country, had been allowed to run down following the death of Gen. Stephen Sanford and the blow to racing by the Legislature. Now the announcement comes from Paris that Mr. Sanford has been buying heavily of breeding stock, and that while some would be kept in France to maintain a stud farm there, the best of the lot would be shipped to the Hurricana Farm."

"Good horses mean big stakes and there already is a noticeable improvement in the values of the events advertised for 1914. Paratoga, a money-maker last season, has come forward with greatly increased offerings that are sure to attract the best horses of the east and west; but perhaps the most heartful sign of all is the proposed meeting for Syracuse, which bids fair to open under conditions that will insure racing of a character fit for metropolitan tracks. So far only one stake has been opened for the proposed meeting, which will be held during the State Fair, when big crowds are in the Salt City looking for amusement. All the leading racing stables in America, on which she has been showing and as a natural consequence other horses in the same stables will be shipped to the short meeting at Syracuse. The races there will follow close on the meeting at the Spa and a successful outcome will go far toward re-establishing the sport in New York State."

GREENTREE STABLE'S PROMISING MATERIAL.

New York, December 15.—For next season the Greentree Stable will have a strong hand at the Hunt Club meetings. Trainer James Owens has seven at Belmont Park, and if they fall to meet those who have seen them will be greatly fooled. One of the recent purchases is Virile. He has attracted a great deal of attention in private exercises and not a few shrewd judges have already predicted that he will make one of the best cross-country horses in America next season.

W. B. Carter and two sterling old performers in the stable, are both looking exceedingly well, while Ballet and Boisterous, winners during the past season, have broadened out and improved since they went into retirement. Cherry Malotte is likely to make a brilliant jumper on which she has been showing and the two-year-old Tandstick has recently been brought on from Baltimore.

Old Delirium, which promised so much early in the season, has been turned out at Mrs. Payne Whitney's Manhasset estate, and it is problematical whether he will be brought back to the races. It will be remembered that he broke down badly at Saratoga and was retired at that time.

As in the past, Charles L. Appleton will do the amateur riding for the stable, while Ernest Heider holds the contract for the professional mounts.

GEORGE VOORHIES DIES IN NEW YORK.

Lexington, Ky., December 15.—George Voorhies, the father of Mrs. James E. Haggin, died at the home of his daughter in New York last night. He was a native of Woodford County, Kentucky, and was born in 1837, being the eldest son of William and Mary Hart Voorhies. John Preston Voorhies, of Denver, now abroad, and William Hart Voorhies, of Illinois, are his surviving brothers. Mrs. Haggin is his only daughter. He had no sons. Dr. Charles Voorhies, bacteriologist at Elmendorf Farm, is his nephew.

Mr. Voorhies was widely read, had traveled extensively and was a great lover of thoroughbred horses. He was regarded as an authority upon pedigrees of the breed. Much of his life after the war, in which he fought on the Confederate side, was spent in the west, but for the past twenty years he had been in Kentucky and for the last two years had resided in Lexington. His body will be brought to Lexington for interment Wednesday morning. The remains will be accompanied from New York by Mrs. Haggin. The services will be in Christ Church Cathedral.

WHEN LOUIS WINANS' LUCK TURNED. A special correspondent of the New York Sun writes as follows from Surrenden Park, England: "In spite of prominent American owners not having fared so well, with the exception of August Belmont, who has done better than ever on the English turf this year by closely studying the returns one finds that American-bred horses have had quite a good season, with a few notable exceptions. They have made such a fine showing in Europe as they have this season. "More than 100 races in England have been won by American-bred horses, but not always owned by Americans. For the big batch of yearlings sent over here to the Newmarket sales of two years ago by Henry T. Oxnard, W. O'Leary, Macdonough, James B. Haggin and other American breeders are earning their oats and winning bets for English owners in many cases. So are several of the thirty-three yearlings of 1911 that Harry Payne Whitney purchased that autumn from the late James R. Keene's Castle-stud in Kentucky and which trainer Joyner has weeded out. Stakes and purses won by American-bred horses this season in England amounted to nearly $200,000. "American horses made a distinctly good finish to the racing season, winning the Liverpool Autumn Cup, run only for the Derby Gold Cup and winning the Manchester November Handicap—the last three big events of the season—besides taking minor events at the same meetings. If Maj. G. H. McLaughlin's crippled Columbus, by Sombrero—Anna Woodford, had started better he might have won the Derby Gold Cup, thereby helping to credit the United States with all three. "Being the guest at Surrenden Park of Walter Winans, who was celebrated as the world's champion pistol shot and a remarkable rifle shot long before he led the United States shooting team to victory at the Olympic games, it is pleasant to be able to record that his brother, Louis Winans, who has most of his race horses sent from Kentucky by John E. Madden, finished the season very well after traveling all year a long lane of hard luck that seemed to have no turning. His string of thirty horses in the training of the twenty-three are American, had won barely $5,000 in all stakes and three weeks ago his favorite mare, Lady Elleen, fractured her pelvis during a strong gallop at Newmarket. He paid $20,000 for a two-year-old filly bred in Ireland named Her Ladyship—a fine looking youngster, but looked like a sorry specimen for such an open-handed sportsman, who pays top prices all along the line. "With the last two days of Manchester's last meeting of the year the wheel of fortune took a grand turn, and the owner's liberality and the trainer's patience were rewarded richly. On the last day but one the Baltimore sportsman's high-class cripple, Sir Martin, which Madden sent him to try for the Derby of 1910, came out in great fettle and, or mushy going that seemed to suit admirably his bad legs, the big chestnut carried 140 pounds to victory in a field of nineteen for the Ellesmere Welter Handicap—a six-furlong dash—giving away great lumps of weight. As he was backed from 2 to 1 down to 100 to 8, it may be surmised that his connections won a tidy sum. "More good fortune was to follow. The next day for Sam Hildreth a good part of their winnings on Dalmanian, a horse that won a fine string of stakes for Sam Hildreth on the New York race courses three years ago. "As a matter of fact, they did not wait until the next day to back this one, for there was considerable overnight wagering on the big race in which Dalmanian was engaged in the Manchester Handicap, the last big event of the season. From 29 to 1 he backed Sam Hildreth's old-time champion down to 15 to 1 over night. The next day was terribly foggy. The first race was postponed half an hour, and then another half hour. When the horses and riders reached the starting post nobody could see ten feet. The starter could not tell whether at sixteen to one there or not, nor how they were lined up, he declined to start them and sent them all back to the paddock. "Eventually the fog lifted a little and the stewards decided to run off the stake race first. In the big field were two other American horses besides Dalmanian. They were Election, by Votey—Inbrosine, bred by the late James R. Keene; and Cheerful, by Plaudit—French, by Salvator. Betting was resumed briskly and the Winans party backed Election from 10 to 1, at which he went to the post fourth choice. "All that can be said about the race is that F. Herbert, a clever Canadian rider, slipped his field at the start and showed the way into the fog, which was coming down again heavily. It was touch and go until the eighth furlong, when the election, which had probably won by a margin of five lengths, called off. Two minutes passed without any one knowing anything or hearing anything. The soft turf and heavy fog muffled the hoofbeats of the galloping field. It was a race of a mile and a half. At last they were clearly approaching. What seemed to be one gigantic horse, which looked faintly out of the fog. As the apparition came nearer two humps on its back could be made out faintly. "There was red on one of the humps; and it was catching the other one just in the nick of time. Louis Winans' racing colors are a red cap with a jacket of black-white-red hoops. The humps, which were two jockeys riding like daredevils for the last big race of the season. The one splashed with red got his horse's nose in front—it was much the larger horse of the two—and the wondering silence that pervaded the field was broken by a faint shout, suddenly by the strident tones of a lynch-eyed Cocker, which he down by the rails in Tattersall's ring in front of the five dollar grandstand. 'Damnation wins! he roared, giving the commonly current perversion of the name of Mr. Winans' American horse. Sure enough Dalmanian did win by a head—from a filly owned by George Edwards of London's Gaiety Theatre fame. "Strange to say, Louis Winans won this event in 1910 with a horse named Valet and on that occasion also the race was run in a fog so dense that the jockeys could tell little of what happened. But in truth it was a matter of fact that Election was bred by August Belmont at Kentucky, being by the famous Ethelbert, out of Ionis, and is rising seven years of age. To the best of my recollection he was sold for an insignificant sum to Sam Hildreth, whose great skill with a horse made Dalmanian into a winner in the Kentucky Derby, the Derby of 1910, when he won the Coney Island Jockey Club Stakes, the Brooklyn Derby, the Travers Stakes, the Yonkers Handicap, the Iroquois Handicap, etc. In August, 1910, Mr. Winans bought him for a large sum through John E. Madden. He has been beaten more than twenty times over here and this is only his fourth win in three years. "The Baltimore sportsman began the jumping season by winning a three mile hurdle race—an unusual distance—on December 2, but with an English horse."

WORK-OUTS OF CHARLESTON HORSES. Charleston, S. C., December 15.—Recent work-outs of horses in training at Palmetto Park are as follows: Weather clear; track good. Berkeley—Half mile in 53½. Coming around fast to form. Billy Vanderveer—Half mile in 51½. Shows plenty of speed in all work. Chas. F. Grainger—Half mile in 53. Is not much for showing fast work. Cracker Box—Mile in 1:49. Works a great deal better than he races. Cutyunk—Half mile in 55. Has not been hurried in any work over here. Cynosure—Half mile in 56. Shows a good burst of speed when set down. Dangerous March—Half mile in 52½. Has been going along slowly for some time. Dorlon—Three-quarters in 1:23. Has been on the slow side for long while. Dr. Duener—Mile in 1:46½. Is ready. Duke Hal—Half mile in 53½. Early Light—Half mile in 51½. Feather Duster—Half mile in 53½. Harebell—Three-quarters in 1:18½. Hedge Rose—Half mile in 52. Was working along well in the first part of the work. Henotic—Half mile in 51. Shows some improvement in speed. Ivan Gardner—Three-quarters in 1:20. Has been working along well for some time. Jack Kellogs—Seven-eighths in 1:33½. Coming around fast to form. Joe Stein—Half mile in 50¾. Looks good and should race well. John Furlong—Mile in 1:46½. Now at his best. Kinder Lytle—Mile in 1:49½. Kimmund—Mile in 1:52. Coming around after a short let-up. Kiva—Half mile in 50. Is ready. Lady Orimar—Mile in 1:48½. Has shown a few good work-outs. Marshon—Half mile in 51½. At his best. There passed away a few years ago, at Funchal, Madeira, a notable figure in the turf world, a man, who, in his own particular branch of business, stood head and shoulders above his later-day competitors. Reference is made to Joe Thompson, who had earned a world-wide reputation as his fearless lawyer, his specialty being the "playful double." Born in London in 1838, Mr. Thompson would have celebrated his seventy-first birthday had he lived a few days longer. After many vicissitudes he settled down in Melbourne, and with his brothers Jack and Barney, his business as a bookmaker developed steadily. He became an owner of race horses, and won a number of important handicaps, his most useful servant being a horse named Don Juan. Returning to England he burst upon the turf world by laying huge sums against double and treble events. Fortune smiled on him, and he amassed vast wealth despite the fact that he paid enormous amounts over lucky speculators and well-planned coups by clever turfmen. Straight in all his dealings, he had the complete confidence of all who had business with him and his demise left a void that was hard to fill. When Mr. Thompson arrived in Australia he "fell on his feet" straight away. At quite an early age he was a master in the manipulation of figures, and this gift was really his making. He quickly took his place at the head of the ring in Australia, and it says much for his geniality that he became a popular figure with his rivals as well as his clients. His one ambition was to complete his jubilee as a lawyer, and then, so he told an interviewer some time ago, "I shall be happy to retire, leave the stress and turmoil of a turf life to younger men, and play with my grandchildren." Mr. Thompson was singularly domesticated and affectionate, and to see him in his family circle he was the truest type of an English country gentleman. Returning to England in 1889, chiefly for the sake of his children's education, Mr. Thompson quickly took his place at the head of his profession. His smiling courtesy, added to his readiness to accommodate the "plungers" of the day, secured him most of the big business. On each occasion that Rusticus won the Leicester Royal Handicap, Mr. Thompson made his book for that horse, and his winnings have been great. The reverse side of the medal, however, was shown in 1891 when the two great autumn handicaps the Cesarewitch and the Cambridgehire, were won by Ragimunde and Comedy respectively. The heavy bettors were well on both these animals, and two of the single-handed wagers laid by Mr. Thompson were to lose $125,000 against Ragimunde and $500,000 against Comedy, the last-named sum, it is stated, being paid to Mr. Fulton, owner of the mare. The year was a bad one altogether for the books, but "Joe" had no complaints. Curiously enough, Mr. Thompson was not in favor of the registration of bookmakers. His argument was that the registration of layers resulted in a lot of undesirable being placed in advantageous positions. "Honor and merit," said Mr. Thompson, "are better than registration."

With a head wind at Newmarket, Mr. Thompson would, he often said, back Tom Sloan against any jockey in the world. The invasion of American jockeys had, in his opinion, done infinite good to the turf in England, and, in addition, the introduction of the five-pound allowance for apprentices had been beneficial. He considered Isinglass the best horse he ever saw. "Bluff and good-natured to a degree, Mr. Thompson was capital company, and when in reminiscence mood he was fond of telling of his early experiences in the antipodes, when he was often compelled to resort to extraordinary means in order to get safely home with the "bank" after attending a race meeting. The bushrangers, who infested the country at that time, being indeed feared. "Possibly the most sensational and adverse wager he ever laid in Australia was when Chester won the Victorian Derby and the Melbourne Cup. He laid the owner 10,000 to 400 the double. He also laid a friend of the owner 10,000 to 500 to win the Melbourne Cup. Chester landed them both. When Mr. Thompson paid over the $100,000, the receiver of the money was so excited that he said tremulously to Jim Mace, who was then in Australia making a book: "Jim, accompany me to the bank and you're sure to get a clothes." Mr. Thompson paid $160,000 away that morning before receiving a penny notice. On the Monday following the Cambridgehire of 1891 he appeared at his London club with $250,000 in bank notes. Handling them over to his son, he coolly remarked: "Now, fire away and pay." Mr. Thompson was largely instrumental in bringing the stewards' stand to the notice of the racing authorities in this country, and he was much gratified when the idea was carried out at Newbury. In his earlier days he was a good athlete, and his knowledge of most sports was extensive.

NOTES OF THE TURF. Aunt Mamie and Thaka have been fired to correct knee trouble at Jurez. Recent additions to the Jurez schooling list include Rockdale, Tempie Focht and Palatable. Only nine horses are wintering at the Windsor race course, four of them being in Ed Glasco's stable. Jockey Borel is quoted as saying that W. G. Yankee, his employer, has won $100,000 on the turf this year. Tiner E. A. Brewster has severed his connection with the J. B. Glover stable and is now in the employ of S. H. Kunz. According to report, Mose Goldblatt has an idea that Jefferson Livingston's Iron Mask may run three-quarters over the Jurez track in 1:09, if it becomes necessary. German breeders of the thoroughbred had already laid out something like $450,000 in English blood-stock this season, but were again extensive purchasers at the Newmarket December sales. Of the nine horses belonging to W. H. Dupece of San Diego, which arrived early in the week, one is a yearling by Rey Hindoo and the remaining one is the seven-year-old gelding High Street. Kennymore, the strongest fancy, next to The Tetrarch, for next year's Derby, was bred by his owner, Sir John Thursty, who also owns Kennymore's sire, John Gamm. The latter is a son of Isomony and Flecher, John Gamm's dam, one of the noted mares of the English turf, was bred by Queen Victoria. Frank J. Bryan, who officiated as one of the handicappers and as a steward during the Pimlico meeting of the Maryland Jockey Club, is particularly enthusiastic over the selling handicaps that were so thoroughly tried out during that meeting. He points out that they all filled exceedingly well and that they brought about the best contests of the meeting. Harry Worcester Smith was a recent visitor at the Jockey Club, and while he did not say so positively it is well nigh certain that there will be another Sportsman's Dinner this winter. Mr. Smith was on his way to Canada and reported that his horses are all in first-class condition. They are at Worcester, Mass., and in the string are Nattie Pumpero, Dulicare, The Cad, Running Reinder and three hunters by Semper Ego that were recently purchased. W. O. Scully has returned to New York from Kentucky and will remain there until after the holidays. Scully has three yearlings at Lexington that he will race over the Kentucky tracks and then ship east later in 1914. The three are a chestnut colt by Fryn Mawr—Pins and Needles, chestnut colt by Glorifier—Fatinlza, and a bay filly by Bryn Mawr—Veronique. Of the trio he expects the best things of the Glorifier colt. He is already a slashing big fellow and greatly resembles his sire, both in color and conformation. PAYS TRIBUTE TO TRACERY. The London Field, in its review of the recently closed England racing season, pays a great tribute to August Belmont's Tracery, coupled with Prince Palatine, which sold for $200,000. Both had one setback, Prince Palatine when he was beaten for the Goodwood Cup, when he failed to win within twenty-five pounds of his form, and Tracery when he failed to give the three-year-old Cantleaver about twenty pounds more than weight for age. As the three-year-old in question afterward won the Cambridgehire it is conceded that Tracery lost little prestige by that defeat. It is unquestioned that Mr. Belmont could have got much more money for Tracery as was paid for Prince Palatine if he cared to part with him. With racing struggling for existence here it must make racing men envious to note that more money changed hands on the English turf than ever before. This does not refer to the money that changed hands in the betting ring, but in the legitimate practice of the sport. The highest price of all time was paid for a single horse and the yearling sales at Doncaster exceed anything that has taken place in previous years. The total sum of money paid was double that of eight or ten years ago. High class horses in training brought higher prices than ever and the attendances at the races were larger, so that more money was spent by the racing public. Poor starting and bad riding are the only faults found with the season's sport. To remedy the former a steward at the starting post is recommended and a sterner policy for the starter when the jockeys are under his control. The trouble over the jockeyship is much the same as in this country, and the recommendations made in England may prove equally effective here. Attention is called to the fact that scores of races with any sort at the start, owing to collisions which follow the rising of the barrier. It is held that the authorities are not severe enough with the riders who do not keep their places and who try to go where they have no room or have no right to be. The suggestion made is a good one, that a crowd's nest steward's stand should be placed on every course and rather further below the winning post than are the few now in use. Before the day's racing all the stewards of the meeting should confer, dividing out the duties, with one man at starting post of every race, and one or more in the crowd's nest, placed in such a position that he could absolutely command the last two furlongs of every race.—New York Sun.

THIRTY LEADING AMERICAN JOCKEYS. The beginning of this week found Burlingame's lead over Buxton for the saddle honors of the year diminished to their insignificant margin of one winning mount. PRESENT-DAY HORSES NOT DETERIORATING. The light of other days always shines more brilliantly for some of our instructors, and each generation finds something to lament the past and exalt the worthies who then flourished. It was so long before Horace set down "laudator temporis acti" as a type enduring through the ages. The superiority of the horses of the preceding generation is a favorite conviction of writers of this turn of mind, and it is easy to find in turf chronicles of fifty years ago the exact repetition of lamentations over the change for the worse that are not uncommon today. Yet there is no good ground for believing other than that the merit and quality of horses of every breed are steadily improving. The thoroughbred may be best compared to the practical uniformity of the supreme test, that of speed on the course. By this standard the progress is up, not down, and horses are improving, not deteriorating. Tracks are faster to a certain extent than 50 years ago, but not near so much as to account for the difference in the times recorded. It has been said more than once in this column that the turf seems to be judged by special rules, applying to no other form of sport, and here is another confirmation of that assertion. No other sport can be cited in which, under similar circumstances, deterioration would be claimed. As a New Zealand trainer not long ago put it: "I have yet to hear of a horse that has changed man capable of running a hundred yards in 10½ seconds is superior to the man who can do 10 seconds and yet that is the position taken up by many people in respect of racing. If the horse of 20 years ago was better than the horse of today the same line of argument might be carried back till further. Perhaps the present-day race horse may not be as tough as the old-timer, but as a speed machine he is considerably ahead of him."—Francis Nelson in Toronto Globe.
